

Cameron Bordner

Sky Tavern Board of Directors

Cam grew up in Durango, Colorado and has been skiing since age 4. Years later, while living in Boulder, Colorado and taking post-graduate classes at UC Boulder, Cam was also working as a professional ski patroller at Eldora Mountain Resort, competing in telemark skiing competitions, mountain biking and climbing. Thereafter, Cam accepted a risk consultant position with a national ski resort insurance company in which he advised resorts across the country on how to minimize their risks and liability. This position brought him from Colorado to Truckee, California. After working in the ski resort insurance field, Cam accepted the Director of Risk Management position at Heavenly Ski Resort.

Cam's experience as a pro ski patroller, risk consultant and ski area risk manager brought to light the significant litigation filed against resorts, which sparked an interest in attending law school so that he could defend resorts and recreational providers from lawsuits. After attending law school and working for a large San Francisco firm that had a ski/recreation defense practice, Cam and his business partner, Richard Molsby, started MOBO Law. Now, a significant part of Cam's practice is devoted to the defense of recreation providers, including ski resorts.

Cam is a big supporter of outdoor recreation and the enrichment it brings to people's lives, particularly children. He is thrilled to be on the Sky Tavern's Board of Directors and play a part in the exciting things to come.
